

Wireframe Changes:

Note: Please look at visual wireframe to see what part of the application each comment applies to. The commented wireframe png file has red letters associated with each comment.

- A. The log in page was removed from the final design as it was not needed by the requirements.
- B. The add course button was moved to the edit term page. This decision was made to declutter the degree plan view.
- C. The term notes section in the wireframe was removed as it was not in the requirements.
- D. The reminders section in the add/edit course page was developed differently than originally designed. The outcome included a way for users to add reminders to their local device, however, preset reminders were not immediately made. The decision to not include preset reminders was made after further researching the scope/usage of the notification plugin available.
- E. The original detailed course view was removed from the final design. After reviewing the requirements, a detailed view that was also editable was needed and the add/edit course view fulfilled that requirement.
